Artist Registry 2010-2011 – Site-Specific Public Artwork

Application Deadline: March 19, 2010 (11:00pm Pacific Time)

GENERAL INFORMATION

Many of Alameda County's capital improvement projects include a Percent-for-Art Program in which professional artists are commissioned to make permanent, site-specific public artwork for the projects. Due to the upcoming schedule of construction projects, many of the artists commissioned for these public art projects will be selected from a registry of pre-qualified artists (Artist Registry). The opportunities may include exterior and interior projects, be appropriate for artists working in a variety of materials and styles, and have a range of project budgets. This is the call to artists for the Artist Registry. The Registry will remain in effect for two years. Artists selected for the Artist Registry will always be notified prior to being placed into consideration for specific projects.

One of 58 counties in California, Alameda County is home to 1.5 million people living in 14 incorporated cities, from Albany in the north to Fremont in the south and Livermore in the east, as well as in 6 unincorporated communities and rural areas throughout the 813 square miles of the County. Alameda County provides health care, social services, public protection, and general government programs for a population that is culturally and ethnically diverse.

Public art opportunities for a wide range of artists such as:

- Artists interested in collaborating with diverse communities
- Artists making artwork which contributes to healing environments
- Artists making youth-focused artwork
- Artists working in a variety of durable, exterior materials
- Established artists who have completed major public art commissions

Note: This Registry is for artists who are qualified to make permanent, site-specific work; a separate call is being announced simultaneously for artists making small to mid-sized, wall-mounted, two-dimensional or low relief artwork.

ARTIST ELIGIBILITY

The Artist Registry is open to professional artists who reside in the state of California.

In an effort to provide opportunities to a wide range of artists and to diversify the County's Art Collection, the following artists are not eligible to apply to for this Registry: Artists who have received contracts for site-specific, permanent artwork at the Juvenile Justice Center or Castro Valley Library and artists who have 6 (six) or more artworks in the Alameda County Art Collection. This includes contracts received as an individual artist or as part of an artist team. Based on County policy, Alameda County employees are not eligible to apply for this program. There may be additional requirements and/or restrictions if an individual applies for and receives a public art contract and works at the County facility where the artwork will be installed. Eligibility requirements will be adjusted for future RFQs.

PUBLIC ART BUDGETS

Individual contracts generally range from approximately $20,000 to $200,000. The artwork budgets include all costs associated with the concept, design, site preparation, fabrication, transportation, and installation of the artwork and any and all required insurance, taxes, licenses, or permits, and the services of subcontractors as necessary.

UPCOMING PROJECTS

Artists who qualify for the Registry will be considered for public art projects at the following facilities.

Additional projects may be added to this list and may be related to youth services, health care, social services, public protection, and general government programs.

- Highland Hospital Acute Care Tower Replacement, Phase 1 (Oakland, CA)

Total Public Art Budget: $500,000

The Arts Commission will manage a public art program in concert with Alameda County's construction at Highland Hospital that includes replacing several buildings within the campus with a new Acute Care Tower, separately-housed non-acute medical functions, and open space. Highland Hospital provides Regional Level II Trauma Center services and is the safety-net provider for medical care for Alameda County's most vulnerable population. The primary goals of the Public Art Program at Highland Hospital are to commission high-quality, original artwork that: 1) helps create a positive, supportive, and healing environment for the patients, their families, visitors and staff, and 2) illuminates the diverse cultures of this region and promotes respect for all people. Specific artwork locations have not been identified.

- Castro Valley Boulevard Streetscape Project (Castro Valley, CA)

Total Public Art Budget: $120,000

This streetscape improvement project will impact the area along Castro Valley Boulevard between San Miguel Avenue and Redwood Road in the unincorporated community of Castro Valley. The project includes the widening of sidewalks, removal of the concrete highway in the middle of road and replacement with a planted median, addition of decorative street lights and furniture, the installation of unique gateway features, and the planting of trees and other landscaping.

SELECTION CRITERIA

The following selection criteria will be used during all phases of review:

- Artistic excellence and originality as evidenced by digital representation of past work.
- Appropriateness of artist's medium, style, and experience as they relate to the project goals and setting and/or adequate professional experience to meet the requirements of this project.
- Artist's ability to respond creatively and uniquely to site-specific design challenges, including the physical, environmental, and community-related conditions inherent to the project.
- Demonstrated ability to work productively and collaboratively with design collaborators and public agencies, including ability to meet the overall design and construction schedules.
- Alameda County artists will be awarded preference points during the first stage of review. (For this project, ACAC considers an Alameda County artist an individual who lives, is permanently employed, or rents/owns a studio in Alameda County.)

SELECTION PROCESS

- Step 1: After the application deadline, a Selection Committee of arts professionals will review the applicants and recommend artists to be included in the Artist Registry. There is no limit to the number of artists who will be accepted for the Registry. The artists selected for the Registry must be approved by the Public Art Advisory Committee and the Arts Commission. All applicants will be notified whether or not they have been selected for the Registry.
- Step 2: For each new project site, the Arts Commission staff will use the Registry to develop a Project Pool of artists to be reviewed by a project Selection Panel. When compiling the Project Pool, the following factors will be considered: goals, budget, site and artistic material requirements, artist's past experience, expected scope of work, artist's artistic approach in relationship to the project goals and opportunities, and other relevant information. Prior to selecting a Project Pool from the Registry, individual communities are consulted to define broad goals to be achieved with the artwork. The Arts Commission staff will contact artists before they are placed in the Project Pool to confirm that each artist is interested and available for the commission, if selected. Due to the number of artists in the Registry and the volume of upcoming projects, the Arts Commission will only contact artists if they are placed in a Project Pool. (Artists who are not being considered will not be contacted). The Public Art Advisory Committee and Arts Commission must review and approve each Project Pool.
- Step 3: The Arts Commission staff will present the Project Pool from the Registry to a unique Selection Panel. The Selection Panels will be appointed by the Arts Commission and will be comprised of community members, artists and arts professionals, and County staff.
- Step 4: The Selection Panel(s) will review the artists' application materials may select semi-finalists, who will be paid an honorarium to either develop a project proposal and/or attend an interview. Semi-finalists will be given the opportunity to meet with community members prior to creating a specific design approach and/or proposal. Upon completion of all interviews, the Selection Panel will recommend one artist or team to be awarded the commission for each project.
- Step 5: The Selection Panels' recommendations must be approved by the Public Art Advisory Committee, the Alameda County Arts Commission, and the Alameda County Board of Supervisors before contracts for the projects can be issued.

The Arts Commission reserves the right to add an additional review stage depending on the applicants in the Registry and any other conditions that may develop.

AWARD OF CONTRACT

Once artists are selected for commissions, the County reserves the option to issue separate contracts to the artists. The first contract may be for the initial project development and project proposal; the second contract may be for additional planning and design services, fabrication, and artwork installation. The amount of the second contract will be based on the project's approved scope of work.

ADDITIONAL REQUIREMENTS

- For site-specific projects, if the commissioned artist is not an Alameda County artist, and if the artist requires the use of subcontractors (i.e. structural engineers, fabricators, shippers, installers), the artist will be required to use at least 20% of their subcontractor project funds to hire Alameda County subcontractors. County guidelines require artists to pay subcontractors and employees prevailing wages as determined by the state's Division of Labor Statistics and Research.
- The artist selected and approved by the Arts Commission shall be asked to enter into contract with the County of Alameda for the entire duration of the project. Depending on the specific scope of the project, prior to the issuance and throughout the duration of the contract, artists will be required to maintain various types of insurance, such as General Liability, Automobile Liability, and other insurance as required by the County. For more information, please review the County's Minimum Insurance Requirements currently posted on the Arts Commission's website.
- If the fabrication and/or installation of the Artwork or any portion of the Artwork requires a licensed contractor, the artist shall be solely responsible for ensuring that artist and artist's subcontractors (if any) have valid appropriate licenses under California law or the applicable jurisdiction. The selected artists will be required to comply with the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) in addition to related federal, state, and local codes and will be encouraged to develop artwork(s) sensitive to programmatic as well as physical accessibility issues.
- Commissioned artists will be required to use the most archival and durable materials possible as related to their concept.
- The selected artists' materials will also be subject to review to ensure that, if at all possible, they are within the standards set forth by the project partners for sustainable building projects and LEED (Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design) requirements.
