Emily Weaver (Marriage and Family Therapist, Collaborative Divorce Coach, Parenting Mediator)
Arlene Kostant (Collaborative Family Law Lawyer, Mediator, Teacher, and Adjunct Professor of Law)
Natalie Leininger (Certified Financial Planner® and Certified Divorce Financial Analyst™)

Presented by: Alameda County Law Library
11:30 a.m. - Noon Sign-in and Brown Bag Lunch
Noon - 1:00 p.m. Presentation

Collaborative Practice is a process by which professionals of varied disciplines assist persons to resolve disputes without resort to adversarial judicial intervention. The process was developed initially for use in family law cases and can be an effective option for those facing marital dissolution. If you or someone you know is facing divorce and you are unfamiliar with this growing practice and wish to know more about it, this program will help you to:

- Understand the Collaborative Divorce process and how it is different from other models for divorce;
- Understand the roles of the professional divorce team: collaborative attorney, collaborative coach; financial neutral, and child specialist;
- Understand the possible benefits and risks of choosing collaborative divorce;
- Know how to obtain more information if interested in learning more about collaborative divorce process and/or training, or how to contact collaborative professionals.
