The Alameda County Registrar of Voters Office today began its post-Election Day canvass to account for every vote cast in Tuesday's General Election and begin the process of ensuring that all valid ballots cast are included in the County's certified election totals.

Activities included in the canvass include processing large numbers of vote-by-mail ballots that were received in the mail or dropped off at Election Day polling places on Tuesday and reviewing provisional ballots.

Registrar of Voters Tim Dupuis said the County will next post updated election totals to the Registrar's website, <http://www.acgov.org/rov/>, on Friday afternoon.

Dupuis said he has directed his staff to provide regular updates next week as well – on Monday, November 14; Wednesday, November 16; and Friday, November 18. Staff will aim to post all updates between 4:30 and 5 p.m.

Following each update, the Registrar will also provide updated totals of elections in the cities of Berkeley, Oakland and San Leandro that require the use of Ranked-Choice Voting.

Current results show 391,165 ballots cast in Tuesday's election in Alameda County. This represents about 44 percent of the County's 888,709 registered voters.

Under State law, Alameda County has until December 8 to certify its election results.
